Jeet Kune Do consists of physical techniques and applied philosophies and requires the individual to train him or herself to their most cultivated state of being-ness so that when faced with a combat situation or a challenging personal situation, the tools needed are available in the moment and can be executed without thought.

Jeet Kune Do ☐ Bruce Lee

Tao of Jeet Kune Do is essentially the Bible of the contemporary martial artist, and will live on as being truly one of the greatest martial arts philosophies of all time.

Tao of Jeet Kune Do book by Bruce Lee

☐The Tao of Jeet Kune Do☐ is an outline of the martial art. In many ways, it looks like and reads like Lee's personal notebook. It's illustrated with crude (but effective) hand drawings of the type one would see in a personal journal, and they are annotated with hand-written notes.

The Tao of Jeet Kune Do represents the thoughts and ideas that Bruce Lee records over nineteen years of his life. He writes most of the notes, writings, and sketches during six months of recuperation. He sustains a severe back injury that requires he lie flat on his back. He uses this bedridden time to reflect on and write about his own life.
